THE PALMETTO CLUB

The Philanthropic Department had charge of the meeting of March 5th, held in the Opera House and open to the general public, a fair sized audience being present. The stage curtains being raised disclosed the pupils of Midway and Waycross Kindergartens. These schools have been the especial charge of the Philanthropic department, and only the thinking few can realize the great work that is being accomplished by these two fundamental structures in the uplifting of the colored race. Mrs. Laurence Thompson, chairman of the department, introduced the little ones, with their teachers, Miss Green and Miss Spain, of Waycross, and Miss Lee and Mrs. Williams, of Midway, who together gave the first part of the program. A little song entitled "Praise Him All Ye Little Children" opened the program. The sweet notes of childish treble were very pleasant. The Lord's Prayer chanted in unison followed. A retreating step in accurate time closed that number, and then a youthful orator gave the welcoming address—short and to the point: "We should make no noise, look at him and listen." A tiny girl welcomed the ladies. A song: "We are the Little People, and you have never seen or heard of us before," was followed by the chorus: "Five Little Chickadees."

Songs, recitations, games, and a drill with dumbbells made up the program, which closed with singing of "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," amid much waving of story flags in baby hands.

Much credit is due, first to the teachers, whose ability, patience and well-directed efforts have brought forth such good results; second, to the mothers, who, limited to the extreme in money and time, spare no effort or self-sacrifice to ensure to their babies the proper foundation of an education: in the kindergarten, eye, ear and hand are cultivated, but most of all the heart; courtesy, gentleness, self-control and brotherly love following in natural sequence. The outcome of all this is the well or woe of many souls, for God knows no distinction of race or color.

After a short intermission Mrs. Williams, of Minneapolis, a prominent club woman, and member of the Board of the General Federation of Women Clubs, was introduced, and gave a brilliant and inspiring talk on club women as workers and helpers in the uplifting of humanity. The speaker compared the clubs of different States to many rivers combining in one great volume and flowing on to the common harbor, all passing through the narrow channel of true thinking and higher living. With fitting quotations and bright anecdotes, held the entire attention of her audience, and in closing urged upon club women, one and all, a realizing sense of the high mission which devolves upon them. Reciprocity in its broadest sense—the giving out of self, asking no thought of gain, but of simple service to humanity, even as embodied in the Golden Rule, always bearing in mind Graham Taylor's injunction:

"Separated units of weakness. Combined—Batteries of power."

A short business meeting was followed by adjournment of the club.
